FAITH IN ACTION

Caravaggio: The Calling of Matthew. (1599-1600)

Saint Peter gestures firmly with his hand to calm his potential resistance. The dramatic point of the picture is that for this moment, no one does anything. Christ's appearance is so unexpected and His gesture so commanding as to suspend action for a shocked instant, before reaction can take place. In another second, Levi will rise up and follow Christ; in fact, Christ's feet are already turned as if to leave the room. The particular power of the picture is in this cessation of action. It utilizes the fundamentally static medium of painting to convey characteristic human indecision after a challenge or command and before reaction. The picture is divided into two parts. The standing figures on the right form a vertical rectangle; those gathered around the table on the left a horizontal block. The costumes reinforce the contrast. Levi and his subordinates, who are involved in affairs of this world, are dressed in a contemporary mode, while the barefoot Christ and Saint Peter, who summon Levi to another life and world, appear in timeless cloaks. The two groups are also separated by a void, bridged literally and symbolically by Christ's hand. This hand, like Adam's in Michelangelo's Creation, unifies the two parts formally and psychologically.

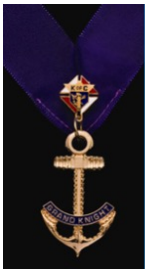

Underlying the shallow stage-like space of the picture is a grid pattern of verticals and horizontals, which knit it together structurally. The light has been no less carefully manipulated: the visible window covered with oilskin, very likely to provide diffused light in the painter's studio; the upper light, to illuminate Saint Matthew's face and the seated group; and the light behind Christ and Saint Peter, introduced only with them. It may be that this third source of light is intended as miraculous. Otherwise, why does Saint Peter cast no shadow on the defensive youth facing him?

Faith In Action Monthly Challenge

An exciting initiative called “Monthly Challenge from the Supreme Chaplain” has begun! Check out this month’s challenge below. A new challenge for each month will be shared on the Knights of Columbus social media pages, as well as in Knightline and Columbia magazine. It is also available in multiple languages at kofc.org.

“The apostles gathered together with Jesus and reported all they had done and taught. He said to them, ‘Come away by yourselves to a deserted place and rest a while’” (Mk 6:30, from the Gospel for July 22).

If we are honest, we know that we are not that good at “coming away ... to a deserted place” to “rest a while.” In fact, over 80 percent of us check our smart phones even before brushing our teeth in the morning and spend time on them in the last hour before we go to sleep. Like the apostles, we focus on getting a lot done. But let’s imagine what would happen if we truly responded to the challenge of Jesus to “come away” to pray in solitude every morning, resting in His presence and holy Word. Jesus invites us to put first things first. Let’s take him at his word and make the changes we need to make.

YOUR GOAL FOR JULY

This month, I challenge you to “come away” to a quiet place by praying at least five minutes a day, first thing in the morning before you check your electronic devices or turn on the TV. You will likely have stops and starts, but strive to be as consistent as possible. In addition, I challenge you to respond to Jesus’ invitation to “rest a while” by doing something truly restful on Sunday, the day of rest.

The grace comes with that first step. Being afraid is not a problem. It is doing nothing when you're afraid, that's the problem."

Parish News and Events: Br. Mark Holland

The end of July brought the end of our time with Fr. Anthony at the Parish. He has served us well for one year, celebrating masses every weekend, in addition to a full-time role in the downtown Diocese office. He is a very well-spoken, knowledgeable and gentle man. In my role as a Sacristan at the 8:30AM mass, I worked very closely with him to prepare the sanctuary for mass and found him extremely warm, friendly and appreciative.

The Diocese announced that:

“Fr. Anthony Pudota, currently the Adjunct Judicial Vicar of Interdiocesan Marriage Tribunal, is also appointed as the Chancellor of the Diocese of Calgary, effective August 1, 2018.”

He will be missed by both parishioners and our Clergy.

At the end of July, Monica Purnama, Ascension’s Sacramental Coordinator, spoke at all masses about the upcoming changes to the Sacramental Preparation program instituted by Bishop McGratten. The key elements are as follows:

- All children receiving the Sacrament of First Holy Communion MUST FIRST receive the Sacrament of Reconciliation. Therefore, preparation for the Sacraments of First Reconciliation and First Holy Communion are now combined in the same school year, beginning in September.

- Children who are going to Grade 2 in the 2018-2019 school year will receive combined preparation for the Sacraments of First Reconciliation and First Holy Communion starting in September.

- Children in Grade 3 and up who already received the Sacrament of First Holy Communion, but have not received First Reconciliation, will only need to take the first half of the combined preparation. This first half of the preparation is for Sacrament of First Reconciliation only.

All preparation sessions will be held at Ascension Catholic Parish. If you have any questions, please contact Monica Purnama by email at sacraments@ascensionparish.ca

With our church renovations proceeding quickly, please take extra care in the parking lot, both as a pedestrian and as a driver. Let’s keep everyone safe.

Wine Survivor

Ascension Council will be hosting an inaugural Wine Survivor Contest this fall. Here's how it works...

Each participant pays an entry fee of $25. From that amount, a bottle of wine will be purchased for the 'wine pool', approx. $15 bottle, and the remaining funds from the entry fee will be allocated to a council program. As to which program, that will be discussed and voted on at an upcoming meeting. Participants will be grouped, randomly, into teams of six players. Each week names will be drawn, in snowball raffle style, and participants whose names have been drawn will be eliminated. The team with the last player still standing will wine the wine pool. Yes it's true, even if your name was drawn and you were eliminated, as long as one player from your team is still alive, the whole team shares equally in the wine pool.

Registration will begin at our September Council meeting.
